"Well now, I say, I say, this is a fine how-do-you-do we got ourselves into! We're in a heap o' trouble, boy! Our crack decoding crew done botched the job — didn't glue them letters worth a lick — and they all just plummeted... straight down like a sack o' feed! Now looky here, can ya piece that message back together for us? Start simple, son, start simple — them single-letter columns first. Then cast your eye on them little bitty words, two or three letters, and pick the ones that make good ol' common sense. That underground church out in, uh... Liazemauchaddesh — yeah, that's the place — they're countin' on us to savvy up to this mighty important Truth, I say, mighty important!"
