My friends, this decoding form was prepared with great care by our devoted team of decryptors. Alas, the adhesive used for the individual letters was... how shall I say... of a most inferior quality. The letters have fallen—straight down, yes—but certainly not in the correct order. To complicate matters, our loyal workers have departed for Disney World for the President's Day holiday. Therefore, it is to you that I must turn. Begin, if you please, with the single fallen letters—they are simplicity itself. Then apply your little grey cells to the shorter words, selecting the letters that form sensible and proper words. When the task is complete, kindly forward your results to your church outreach pastor. Order, you see, must always be restored.
