We have letters down. This time it's an alien from the planet Verdorf. He (she?) zapped the billboard letters with that ray gun and a bunch of them fell straight down. We need your help. Start with the columns where it's only one or two letters. Then work on the two and three letter words. Put in letters that make sense. When you have repaired the billboard, send the solutions to Spiros the Spy. He will want to coordinate the response to the attack on other recent incidents.
