Would you believe it, my decoders slipped up again. They were so excited to get back to their new Play Station games, they were not careful to use the correct adhesive to paste the letters to the decoding form for the secret message from the Ziboda embassy. Luckily, they slid straight down. Focus first on the columns where only one letter is missing. Then look at the two and three letter words to figure out which letters make a reasonable word. When you finish the decoding, forward the message to your representatives in your state legislature.
